The Final Frontier

Between a Great City and the Great Plains

Welcome to Stapleton Denver’s Final Frontier. This neighborhood is one of the most active and dynamic areas of the city. It comes with a few surprising fields. Because the community is rapidly becoming a great place to live, it is a place that is growing in leaps and bounds. The name “stapleton” is derived from the Spanish word “staple,” which means “point” or “cornerstone.”

In the north part of Denver’s 22nd Street crossing, Stapleton is ideally located near downtown Denver and the University of Colorado Denver. With 56 acres of parks, community pools, and state-of-the-art community centers, it offers something for everyone.

The Intersection

OF CITY AND SCENERY

In Bluff Lake Neighborhood, you’ll always have something to do or see. And when you’re done exploring, there are over 50 parks, community pools, and state-of-the-art community centers. Enjoy evenings of fun at the community center, or have dinner at the 29th Avenue Town Center, or a weekend of exploring nearby Eastbridge Recreation Center and nearby Eastbridge.

PART OF A LARGER COMMUNITY

Perhaps the best story about North End is that it’s part of something bigger. It’s a part of a vision that started with Denver’s growth in the 1970s, where 26 parks and community pools are located within walking distance. With chefs and restaurants all within walking distance, the community offers something for everyone. And when you’re done exploring, you can spend the night at the North End apartments, which are located in the heart of Denver.
